Association between a genetic polymorphism of the interleukin-6 gene and systemic lupus erythematosus in a Chinese population. The interleukin-6 (IL-6) gene polymorphism (rs1800796 C/G) was investigated in 230 patients with systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE) and in 360 age- and sex-matched healthy controls from a Chinese population to assess whether it has a role in the pathogenesis of SLE. Genomic DNA from the peripheral blood leukocytes was isolated, and the IL-6 gene polymorphism was screened using polymerase chain reaction-restriction fragment length polymorphism. Results indicated that there was a significant association between the IL-6 rs1800796 polymorphism and SLE ($P = 0.026$, odds ratio [OR] = 1.78, 95% confidence interval [CI] 1.06-2.95), particularly in the female population (P Soluble CD83 as a novel marker to identify and monitor regulatory B cells during chronic inflammatory processes. Inflammation and immune tolerance are closely linked processes. Regulatory B cells (Bregs), a specialized subpopulation of regulatory T cells, are described in great detail for their potency in suppressing inflammation and preventing autoimmunity. The recent discovery of CD83 as an important costimulator of regulatory T cells has considerably advanced our understanding of the dynamic interplay of T and B cells. In this study, we analyzed the expression of surface and soluble CD83 in a range of chronic inflammatory disorders. Importantly, we also analyzed the impact of CD83 on Breg proliferation and induction of regulatory cytokines by measuring CD83 mRNA levels in B cells or B cell-derived CD83 protein levels in the super

Sebastian Vettel says he does not "understand" his title rival or his behavior. Kimi Raikkonen heads to Abu Dhabi to face Daniel Ricciardo after finishing his first season in F1 with Ferrari F1 Team in fifth place. The Finn, 34, who will be a teammate for Vettel this season, says he will enjoy his time at the wheel of the team's 2018 challenger. But despite the fact it was already announced that this year's championship would be a battle between him and the German, Vettel thinks he can't wait to begin the new campaign in Melbourne. "I don't understand him at all," said Vettel in an interview with Germany's Auto Motor und Sport newspaper. "And he doesn't understand me either, as I am very direct and always say what I think. It's a pity that it is so," he added. Vettel's Ferrari teammate Sebastian Vettel at the Melbourne Grand Prix in 2017. Mike Ryder/Pool via Reuters Vettel said that the championship was yet to start, and described his rival as a "nice guy", but he added: "I don't like him". He also said that he is looking forward to Ferrari's new car, which he will get to test at Barcelona next week. "I will have a lot of fun this year," he said. "For me it is a big challenge - and one that I want to win. "It will certainly be my toughest season in F1, and I want to show that I still am among the best. "We want to go to Ferrari with a winning car, because no one can say anything else," he said. There was nothing said about the test of Raikkonen's car, but there is a rumor in some circles that the team is unhappy with the performance of Raikkonen's car, despite the Finn having won races in 2017. "There is no such discussion right now," said Vettel. "We will see how my car is next week - but I hope for a good result. "In the meantime, I want to prepare myself for the first race. I'm already looking forward to it." He also said that he cannot wait to race back at Albert Park. "I always said that I loved to race there," he said. "Now I can do it for real."
