I've included the as an example but probably as a long shot, please do help! A: wget -m (--mirror) will "mirror" the file, i.e. make a copy of it on your machine. The network and DNS servers that urls.py needs to get them are probably in the /etc/resolv.conf file. [edit: here's a more detailed explanation of --mirror and the commands shown in your question] Iraqi capital Baghdad has long been the home of Mohammed, an unloved wife and mother from Abu Ghraib prison. After nearly 2,000 days in prison with her 5-year-old son, Mohammed has been granted temporary freedom in Baghdad. After many applications for legal protection, she has just been released, accompanied by the boy's father, who she had never met. But she is not allowed to go home. Tens of thousands of prisoners have been freed from Iraqi prisons this year, but the overwhelming majority are former insurgents and "undesirables", not inmates convicted of serious crimes. Tens of thousands are still being detained. Human rights groups argue that Iraq's prisons are becoming ever more dangerous because of the continuing sectarian violence that has killed thousands in the past three years. "The facilities used by the government are cramped, dirty, and overcrowded," said Omar Shakir, a US human rights group. "Criminals continue to be imprisoned in degrading conditions, and even with the government's stated plan to scale up their capacity, the security situation will create serious problems for those being moved out." Despite the instability, 1,600 prisoners were freed on Sunday, according to an official in Iraq's Interior Ministry, only half of whom were thought to be hardened insurgents. The remaining prisoners were released because their prisons had run out of space, the official said. Most had been captured by the US in the 2006-2007 "liberation" of Sunni-held towns and neighbourhoods of Baghdad and other cities. They are now being returned to their hometowns with the support of the US and Iraqi governments, though the US has drawn criticism for releasing prisoners deemed guilty of serious crimes rather than insurgents. The effects of UV irradiation on attached and suspended cells of Escherichia coli were studied. Ultraviolet (UV) exposure of attached cells resulted in a drastic loss of viable cells. The viable cell number dropped to less than 10% within 15 sec of UV exposure. The ultraviolet light (UVC) dose required to inactivate E. coli cells attached to stainless steel was determined to be 1.8-2.2 x 10(8) mJ m-2 as a function of the square of the distance from the source of radiation. This value is in a good agreement with the values calculated from the Beer-Lambert law. The inactivation of E. coli suspended in tryptic soy broth solution was negligible. The UV-inactivation of attached E. coli cells was independent of pH within the range of 4.0-9.0. Inactivation was, however, dependent on the characteristics of the inoculum. Inoculum preparation with a longer lag-phase led to a larger inoculum-to-steel cell ratio. Q: Which approach to put bitmap data in a SQLite database? What is the best way to store bitmap data in a SQLite database? I want to create a table like this: CREATE TABLE TEST (ID INTEGER PRIMARY KEY IDENTITY, BITMAP_BLOB BLOB NOT NULL DEFAULT 0); It's important that I have a BLOB, because there will be a bitmap image associated to that data.
