What's new in Darkarta: A Broken Heart's Quest Collector's Edition:

There has been a long period of great pain, suffering, and loss in our lives. It may be that the time has come that you may want to share some of your pain with someone. You have made the agonizing choice to go through this difficult process alone, but perhaps you may need someone to go through it with you. In addition, perhaps you are in need of an explanation of what you are going through. You may have no idea what caused you so much pain, suffering, and loss. Perhaps you feel that the explanations people offer you are false or incomplete. Or perhaps you do not even know the true details of what led to you getting to the place you are in now. Each decision on whether to share your pain and suffering with someone will be something you have to make. You cannot force someone to do this. The information contained in this guide is not intended to replace legal advice for situations where it is specific to your own individual circumstances. You must consider any applicable laws, which may change from time to time. Every situation is different, and there are always a number of unknowns and variables. This guide is designed as a general layman's guide and may not reflect the exact nature of the circumstances for your case. Hunter's World Hunters are usually the ones who are out there, hunting the "Target." Hunters come from all social groups. Some are from upper class people, some from lower class people. There are hunters with or without disabilities. There are hunters with or without material assets, money, or other resources such as influence, nor money. There are hunters with or without

Because the “Target” usually has experiences of abuse and can easily become attached to the Hunters, there is very little chance that either will be interested in communicating.
