Beware of fake antivirus products from malware companies that give you the impression that they are giving out genuine antivirus software, but they just provide you with some low-quality "antivirus"-like software which can only make your computer run slowly.

As an example of a method for producing a semiconductor device such as an integrated circuit, there is known a chemical vapor deposition (CVD) method for depositing a thin film on a wafer. The CVD method is broadly classified into a thermal CVD method and a plasma CVD method. In the thermal CVD method, a gas mixture including a reaction gas is supplied to a wafer heated to a predetermined temperature to deposit a thin film on the wafer. In the plasma CVD method, a gas mixture is supplied to a wafer and the reaction gas is excited in plasma form, thereby forming a thin film on the wafer. In recent years, a semiconductor device has been down
