Into the Breach is a turn-based strategy game set in a near future world where giant alien creatures called the Vek have invaded and attacked Earth. A group of heroes and futuristic mechs must work together to defend mankind from these death machines. But not only do the Vek possess powerful mechs of their own, they are also able to teleport their troops from one city to another instantly. With each enemy city, there is a new randomly generated map, some of them for the first time in the game! But to survive, you must be prepared. Together, the characters and mechs can build a powerful army of towering, customizable mechs! Every time you play, you will face a new challenge and a new opportunity to take back Earth. After the initial release of the game in late 2015, the team behind Into the Breach released a major update to improve the gameplay and appearance of the game, following player feedback. This new update added new content to the game including two new story missions, a new building, a new character model, a new music track, and a new global victory condition. In addition to these new features, the team behind the game has been steadily updating the game based on player feedback, releasing major updates every month since November 2016. Neptunia is back! A world where magic and technology exist in harmony has changed thanks to the goddesses....Read MoreQ: If matrices have the same trace then they have the same determinant Let M be the matrix of a linear transformation T from a linear space V to another W . I was trying to show that if T has a determinant $\det(T)=\det(M)$ then M^T has a determinant $\det(M^T)=\det(M)$. If M is invertible then by definition we have $\det(T)=\det(M)=\det(M^{-1})=\det(M^T)$. I was hoping the fact that the trace of a matrix is invariant to similarity would be useful but I don't see how. A: Assume M is invertible. T is given by $M^{-1}MA$. But trace is also invariant to similarity, so the trace of MA is the same as the trace of A , so to say, and the determinant of A is the trace of A . Rodney Charters Rodney Charters (May 27, 1912 - June 11, 1993) was an American film and television actor. Career He appeared in numerous B Westerns in the 1950s, including a role as Sheriff Jim Bowers in the 1955 film, The Gunfighter. Charters also had a role in early Frank Sinatra films, including The Tattered Dress (1955) as the store owner and in The Man with the Golden Arm (1955) as a notary public. He appeared in multiple episodes of the CBS western series, The Lone Ranger. Charters is perhaps best remembered for being the runaway stage driver who was often seen on the trail ahead of Johnny Ringo in the opening episode of the second season of NBC's western series, The Range Rider. Tired of Mario/Zelda games? Looking for something new? This could be your next game! Step into the shoes of a preadolescent, in the year 1984. As a young child, you are asleep in your backseat and wake up, to discover yourself near a large, "broken" house. You have no idea where you are or who you are, or why you are in this house. All you know is that you must get away. The house you wake up in is the home of R.B. Paulson who is a beautiful boy. His father has recently died of an accident while on a business trip. R.B. was left in his care. As you walk through this house, you are greeted with a variety of creatures, in order to find R.B., you must collect items that will help you in your journey. Your main goal is to find R.B. and get out of this house. They'll Find You! Features: • Excellent, Hand-drawn artwork, featuring tight and sharp game play, completing R.B.'s adventure • A great game for fans of old NES Horror game's • Intuitive, tight & precise platforming • 25 levels in which you have to solve puzzles • 14 rooms you have to explore • 5 hidden secrets • Collect keys, screws & electronic keys to unlock a door in another room • The Game Soundtrack is in a high resolution • The Gameplay is in old school, but still so different, and fun • You can create your own levels, comment and submit suggestions They'll Find You! Logo The Game "They'll Find You" Gameplay: The Gameplay of They'll Find You, is an exciting & unique platformer. It has a distinct early NES feel to it. There are no unnecessary obstacles or jumps, just tight platforming and gameplay. In order to find R.B., you have to find 23 Screws, and 23 Keys. Screws are located in rooms you have to go through. To get to that room, you have to solve puzzles. The Keys are scattered throughout each room. With the Keys, you can unlock a door. There is no running or jumping in this game, just tight and precise platforming. You can jump on the walls to climb, or you can stand on barrels and other things to jump. As you play, you will start to become more adept at navigating this house, and be able

Riptide GP2 is a scooter made by the Chinese ride-on toy company Motley Kids, marketed by China Motor Corp. Overview Motley Kids started producing Riptide GP2 scooters in 2018. There are a number of scooters based upon the Riptide GP2 framework: The new and original Riptide GP2 scooters are based on The Chinese design Riptide GP2 V3, and internally are designated as R (where R stands for the letter R before the serial number), Model: R01. Other models include 30D, R03, R13 The scooters come in three sizes: 45cm x 25cm x 35cm (1h 48cm x 9h 31cm x 14h 1in), 55cm x 29cm x 36cm (1h 48cm x 11h 3in), and 75cm x 40cm x 53cm (2h 24cm x 15h 3in). The scooters have two speeds: Slow: 3.0 to 4.0 km/h (2.0-2.9 mph), and Fast: 4.0 to 6.0 km/h (2.9-4.3 mph). They can run at full power for 3 to 8 minutes. Reception Kotaku in 2019 said the scooter was made by the same company that makes RIDE on RAVN, along with a few other brands: In 2019, they rated the Riptide GP2 second best children's ride-on toy . The Los Angeles Times in 2019 said that if the 30D version of the Riptide GP2 is $55, you "can get three more of the scooters for the price of one." According to children's toy expert for the British market The Toy Retailers Association, the Riptide GP2 is in "the upper echelon" of child safety scooters. Motley Kids released the Riptide GP2 in April 2018, and in 2019 it is still one of the five best-selling children's ride-on toys in The United States. In 2019, they rated Riptide GP2 V3 5 stars out of 5. Accolades In 2019, they ranked the Riptide GP2 in the Top 25 best children's ride

Q: Can I implement an Equals method on this class? A client of my class will need to know if two objects are equal. I have implemented an override for operator == in order to avoid a big runtime expense on doing a bunch of equality checks. I would like to know if I can get away with doing this in the class:

class Byte :
IEquatable { public bool Equals(Byte o) { return this.CompareTo(o) == 0; } public
