

FIFA 22 includes the new "Free Kick Creator," which lets you create a free kick for your favorite team to use. Goalkeepers and defenders will also pick up on the new mantra: "make them feel it, never let them score." We'll be updating this page as new details are announced on the upcoming FIFA title. Note: this post will be updated with the announcement of the new FUT features that were detailed in the most recent gameplay presentation, as well as the release of the demo, which includes three new FUT Packs. General Updates Quick Rank Mode Introduced in FIFA 19, EA Sports' Quick Rank Mode (QRM) was a simple and effective method for players of all skill levels to master key FIFA scenarios and tactics on their own. In FIFA 22, the same feature, including a new "Quick Rank Mode Skills Guide", is available for free to all Season Pass holders. As with the previous edition of this feature, users can now choose from a variety of tutorials (including How to Score Goals, Tackle Like a Pro, Pick a Defense, and The Art of Submission) that will teach users the key skills to master. New Commentary A new chapter in the history of EA SPORTS commentary is underway. Bringing FIFA back to the people that make the games, the new-look panel of trusted commentators includes three new voices: Oliver Gunz, former EPL broadcast commentator David Platt, and former UEFA Champions League analyst Lee Dixon. To put the new commentary in context, all lines will be shared by two commentators. New Lace-Up FIFA's Lace-Up feature (introduced in FIFA 19) will return in FIFA 22. In this feature, players can create goals and rediscover the joys of goalkeeping. The Line-Up The Line-Up is a foundational feature of FIFA that allows players to customize the starting lineup of their real-life team, and now features improved AI and gameplay. In FIFA 22, the new "Manager Draft (UNV)" system for creating teams adds an additional layer of strategic depth and realism. The Manager Draft features a new button that will allow managers to create a starting lineup by selecting players based on their position on the pitch. As a whole, the FIFA 22 engine has been built using a modern, engine-independent interface, meaning that features can be built and integrated quickly. With this in
