Enjoy some ketchup while watching that clip above. Some people figure where else to put ketchup, eh? The best thing about this is the girl on the left, played by Katherine Vitz. I know you can't tell from this picture, but her face is pained and almost shocked. I'm a man, I've never seen such a look on a woman's face. Any woman? Is that still a guy thing? :). It is the heart wrenching story of an Englishman who spends his life making its fun and love for his second wife Anna. He is a honest man. It takes him a long while before he realizes that she can't bear any more children as a result of all the injuries she suffered during the war. She don't say why that is. Elias manages to meet with a doctor who advises that he should have another sex with Anna. So he hires the services of a prostitute. She agrees to have sex with him for a hundred thousand. She has trouble because he is unable to do it.

Meanwhile, their two sons are constantly belittling their parents, so they don't visit their parents, they don't help out with their chores, etc. Elias and Anna have decided they want to go visit their sons. They hitchhike and make it there. While they are waiting for their sons to get home from school they have some fun together. It is here that the audience is introduced to the ketchup that it has been drinking. The boys come home. They are very happy to see their parents and say, "What's for dinner?" "You," their mother says. They take it as a joke. "You," their father says. "Hey, there's too much pressure on us!" they say. "And," their mother says, "If you were half as loving as this bottle of ketchup, I'd really love you!"

"We're going out tonight, so I have something to do. I'll be back to cook dinner," they say and they go out. The boys comes back a few hours later, take one look at their dinner, and both start to cry. "There isn't anything to eat! Look at the way Mom and Dad are dressed! Don't you care about them?" "We want to see Mom and Dad! Why aren't they here?"

Align a JLabel I created a form that has a text box, two radio buttons and a submit button. The radio buttons display check boxes and the submit button displays a square. I'm trying to align the input text box with the radio button, but my text box is being shoved off to the right by a few pixels. How do I get the text box to align with the radio button? A: You may look at using a GridLayout for your form. Here is a link to the Oracle Tutorial on using GridLayout. For example: JFrame frame = new JFrame("GUI"); frame.setSize(200, 200); JPanel leftPanel = new JPanel(); leftPanel.setBackground(Color.BLACK); leftPanel.setPreferredSize(new Dimension(100, 100)); JPanel rightPanel = new JPanel(); rightPanel.setBackground(Color.RED); rightPanel.setPreferredSize(new Dimension(100, 100)); JButton leftButton = new JButton("Left"); JButton rightButton = new JButton("Right"); JLabel label = new JLabel("Text"); JTextField

field = new JTextField(10); JPanel compositePanel = new JPanel(); compositePanel.setBackground(Color.GREEN); compositePanel.add(leftPanel); compositePanel.add(field);
compositePanel.add(rightPanel);
compositePanel.add(rightButton); compositePanel.add(label);
compositePanel
