Note: ZC Broadcaster is no longer supported by its developer but you can still download it from Softpedia with the limitations listed on this page. ZC Broadcaster is a program that can be used to encode multiple videos into one file, and it can be used as a video to video splitter. You can use it to combine several video files into one file, split a video file into several separate files, or split a video into several segments. The interface is plain and easy to work with. You can add, change and edit settings, as well as perform the encoding job. The output file or files can be exported to any selected codec. It supports several formats for audio and video. In the list you can check out the name, media information (length, split span, size, output size), output name and status of each file. So, once you establish the directory destination and file type, you can proceed with the encoding job. In the "Settings" area you can set the default output folder, change the video and audio codec, quality, bitrate, sample frequency rate, as well as time values for splitting or merging. Settings can be restored to their default values. The tool is quite fast and can encode multiple videos and take snapshots at the same time. It can also update the subtitle tracks of a video file and has a good response time. This is a handy video converter. ZC Broadcaster Description: Note: ZC Library is no longer supported by its developer but you can still download it from Softpedia with the limitations listed on this page. ZC Library is a program that allows you to add subtitles to an imported video file. Subtitles can be added at the beginning, middle or end of a video file. ZC Library is very easy to use and can encode any supported format. All you need is a video file and the subtitles in the corresponding format. You can get the basic steps and further help in the comprehensive help file. Once you launch the tool and choose the destination folder for the output file, you can add subtitles to the list of files in the "Settings" area. Then click on the "Add subtitles" button and select the subtitle file, and the subtitles can be added to the video file. This conversion tool offers a good response time, is quite fast, supports several languages for the interface, and can encode multiple videos and take snapshots at the same time. The output file is an AVI file, so
