Q: How to use SQLite C API from PHP? I need to use the SQLite C API from a PHP script, but it is not working. I believe it's because I am not handling the memory deallocation correctly. The script works fine if I run it directly from PHP, but crashes and dies when I call it from command line. How can I correctly use the C API from PHP? A: For PHP with Postgres just use PDO. `$stmt = $db->prepare('select * from people'); $stmt->execute(); $row = $stmt->fetchObject(); var_dump($row->get_data());` For SQLite, I could not find the correct answer, but you have to somehow manage the memory. A: You need to call `sqlite3_close()` at the end of your script. A: Use PDO From an early age, Jonny lives and dies with the one he loves. He has a long term sexual relationship with his best friend but his heart belongs to a woman called Reni who is shy and lonely. In an attempt to become more confident, Jonny enters a beauty pageant, where he is selected as Miss Sweet Charity. On the night of the competition, Jonny receives a phone call and is told that Reni is dying. By the time Jonny arrives at the hospital, it is too late and Reni is gone. Jonny does not know what to do with his life and departs to Spain to lick his wounds. There he meets a rich Spaniard called Eduardo who lives in a beautiful villa. Eduardo sets Jonny up with a plan to win a million pounds. Jonny agrees to the deal, leaving his past behind him. What Jonny doesn't know is that Eduardo wants him to watch over two beautiful sisters. Eduardo's plan is to seduce Jonny and persuade him to steal the millions. The sisters are a target, because they are enjoying themselves in the villa whilst Jonny is locked in Eduardo's villa awaiting his fate. It's a twisty story of deception, desire and greed all set against the backdrop of a beautiful seaside resort, and it is a story that will keep you in suspense to the very end."The Qaib Al-Ghadab

Tuesday, June 19, 2010 So we are down to the last 4 days of our IKEA trip. We're getting ready to leave tomorrow which means that I'm putting the finishing touches on a few things for the next day of shopping. Stay tuned! Once we hit store number eight (which is already too many) we'll be going to the IKEA next to Walmart. Unfortunately, IKEA in Sandy didn't have any of the IKEA products that we had hoped to purchase. Seriously, even though IKEA's biggest selling point is their selection, they don't carry all of the products that they sell in stores. We were going nuts at this store trying to find things we just didn't see at any of our other stores. It was sad, but there was not much we could do about it so we made the best of it and looked at several other stores while we were there. I would say that our favorite store in Sandy is the store at the Brooklyn Arms. IKEA is huge, but they were out of everything that we wanted to buy. We had spent a few hours at the store looking for things. I even went to the back rooms to see if we could find some of the products that were missing in Sandy. Our favorite room at the Brooklyn Arms was the "F'ing Love House". A room that is filled with furniture that, yes, is "f'ing love" (or even better, "f'ing awesome"). Here we are in the F'ing Love House. This is one of the many bathrooms that we found in this Brooklyn Arms store. The smell alone in the bathroom made it worthwhile to visit this store. I found a unique piece of furniture in the Brooklyn Arms store. This funky chair was on clearance for $35. Here is a shot of it when we bought it. I had also picked out this chair in the Brooklyn Arms store for myself. Here is the reason that it is in the middle of the "f'ing love" house. No more bruised elbows! In addition to the incredible "f'ing love" furniture you see in the Brooklyn Arms store, there are a variety of other items that are just plain awesome. These are classic pictures and items. They are not on clearance because they are not in season. You'll be able to find these items in most every store, but you might have to "fight" the crowds. After much
