Q:
What would be a suitable way to store a solid coloured image on the device? I have a small program where I have a colored circle that I want to change size each time the user presses on a button. This works fine but I need to know what would be the best way to store the image so I can reload it at the appropriate size. I have considered the following ways 1) taking a screenshot of the page 2) using Bitmap objects 3) storing it as a 1 colour image 4) storing it as a jpg file Method 1 would save the image as a screenshot in the device's cache which would be reloaded whenever the app runs. Not really a concern for a 2-3 inch screen but a bigger one which has a larger cache would have trouble with the memory that would be used for the images. Method 2 I

Wisdom remains as strength and as might goes the swiftest arm. - Ouragans

The swords were forged from the same so-called "White Transmutation Stone," all the swords of our land, forged and bladed. Their strength can be compared to our own soul, and their strength is said to be that of people. And so, the family that declares the Gekyuu fighting suit of our country as their family crest, has their swords made in the same way.

As for the stout and humble armors, the elder said, "The Heaven-and-Earth fighting suit with its difficult platitudes as its foundation definitely shows a powerful body too, but since there are many stances, it is trouble for you. Please prepare for the timeless wisdom of using secrets that make you victorious without a pause. And be careful of the enemies that cause you to change."

"I am quite familiar with the class which adapts to a variety of tactics, I think I can handle the armored class. How's about you?"

They exchanged mutual greetings and lights and with thanks, they retreated from the bargaining table.

Singer — Songwriters Take Note: How To Get 'Em To Listen Singer — Songwriters Take Note: How To Get 'Em To Listen The singer and songwriter model is fast becoming the “new paradigm” for artist development. While touring with the Justin Bieber tour is a great job, it is hard to find steady work with an artist that produces hits. Enter: the songwriter/artist. Why would you want to work with a songwriter/artist? You get to write/produce your own music AND you are never more than 1 hour away from a hit. So why would an artist NOT want to work with a songwriter/artist? Because they want to be the star. They want to be named after the song. They want to be the “producer” and the musician. All of the creative elements for a hit song are put on them. The singer/songwriter model offers a middle ground with creative ownership. NICHOLAS

FEDORMACHNIK: “I really like working with songwriters because it allows me to be more involved in the creative process and focus on the song without getting caught up in “noise” and distractions. I like to have creative control of every element of my work...”Q: PHP
