Eyeing the Screen Reader In earlier versions of Photoshop, when you used the mouse to pan, zoom, or drag an image, a screen reader played the sound of _ch_, _k_, or _m_ depending on which tool you used. It wasn't an accurate representation of what you were doing and was often unintelligible when dragging across a document window. However, with the release of version 7 in 2006, an integrated screen reader was added to Photoshop. The integrated screen reader provides a natural reading tone, and it stays with you as you perform all of your editing tasks — no other audio is played. You can toggle the screen reader with the checkbox at the bottom of the screen when it's on or off. When it is turned on, the _k_ or _m_ sound is played when you click the mouse in one place on the screen. When the mouse is moved, the screen reader synthesizes the sound of the actual tool you're using at that moment, such as brush, airbrush, or pencil.

Wednesday, April 20, 2009 Ocean Front Property for Sale World class ocean front property for sale! Windt Beach, California is the only exclusive beach property on the San Diego coast that has a private park at the entrance of the property. Windt Beach is a private beach in the middle of the rugged, beautiful and empty coastline of California from Leucadia to Torrey Pines. From its high tide pool up to the dunes the property is 5 miles of unspoiled beachfront property. Windt Beach is still owned by the family who originally built the community from the bottom up with private parks that clearly delineated the property from adjoining public lands. Windt Beach has no public access to beach and is owned in fee by the owner which is exclusively private. Without public access Windt Beach has no public benefit and has no ROE. Windt Beach connects to Point of the Arches State Park and is minutes away from the La Jolla Cove, Black's Beach, Sandpiper Cove, Stearns Wharf and Torrey Pines. It is the best-kept secret of San Diego's pristine coastline. Windt Beach is a rare opportunity to own a large 3+ acre piece of prime oceanfront property without any public access and for sale for unprecedented low price. Windt Beach gets only the ocean breezes and the glorious views while the publics has to share the beaches. Recently Windt Beach was sold but the new owner and the previous owner were not able to agree and the property has been back on the market. The owner and the new owner want a final offer before selling the land back to the estate, and the estate wants to sell Windt Beach to a buyer that is family-owned to preserve the legacy of the owner and the seller who built the community from the bottom up.　　 　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　�

What's New In?

Five-year-old Jacob Schnepp has a greater fear of getting his hand caught in the car's door than dying. The little boy was holding up the door while his brother Hunter Schnepp opened the car seat in which their younger brother, Sam, sits. With their mother, Lori, sitting in the passenger seat, Jacob asked, "Do you think I'll die today?" His mother replied, "Not today, sweetie." Jacob broke the window while his brother opened the door, and the two were instantly rushed to John Muir Hospital in Walnut Creek. Though Sam was uninjured, the windshield was shattered, and his mother said he was "hysterical" about the incident.Shivaji C. Buwa Shivaji C. Buwa is the founding dean and professor of the Bioscience and Bioengineering Department at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign, where he was formerly the director of the NanoBioTechnology Center. He is also affiliated with the National Center for Supercomputer Applications (NCSA) and the Illinois Governor's Sustainability Council (GISC), among others. He is a graduate of Syracuse University and the University of Michigan, where he earned a PhD in Electrical Engineering. He is considered to be a pioneer of nanoscale science and technology. One of his recent contributions is the development of a scalable roll-to-roll fabrication process for organic solar cells based on organic light emitting diodes (OLEDs). That achievement led to the sale of that technology to a German company, VTT Technical Products, for later use in the production of solar cell sheets. Buwa is active in both computational nanotechnology and nanomedicine. He is also known for the development of the first gene-delivery nanoparticles, using a self-destructing lipid. Buwa is a regular speaker at conferences including CeNSE and Drexel University in Philadelphia. In May 2007 he was appointed a member of the Board of Trustees for Princeton University. The American Physical Society awarded Buwa the 2012 Faculty Award for leadership in physical sciences and computing education.
