With iTunes, simply drag and drop your media files from the Finder to your iTunes library. But what if you need to get some media on other devices, or access them from a different computer? You don't have to depend on iTunes for the simplest of tasks. It's called OverDrive Media Console. It's a tool that lets you browse and play music and video files on all the computers and devices that you own. It lets you download anything you have from your library, and it gives you a one-click way of getting your media on all your devices — including Apple devices. Simply install and open the program and you can start listening to your library on your PC or Mac without having to sync media to Apple devices first. Most devices will be preloaded to identify and recognize the type of media you've inserted. If your device isn't listed, however, you can search for it manually. The program will then download the media and store it in your media library, which you can access from a wide range of devices.Q: How do I add a new Column to my ListView? I have a ListView in a Dialog. When I add new elements to the ListView, it says that it cannot attach it to the listview. Is there a way to add a column in the ListView? A:
