Bibbia ebraica interlineare pdf downloadThe present invention relates to a new and distinct cultivar of Aloe plant botanically known as Aloe arborescens and hereinafter referred to by the cultivar name 'Balsanina'. The new cultivar originated in a controlled breeding program in Elburn, Ill. during October 2015. The objective of the breeding program was the development of Aloe cultivars with multiple unique and desirable characteristics. The new Aloe cultivar is the result of open-pollination. The female (seed) parent of the new cultivar is 'Aloe Carnosa', U.S. Plant Pat. No. 26,831, issued May 2014, characterized by its gray-colored plants with a single primary vein, medium green-colored leaves, and medium green-colored flowers. The male (pollen) parent of the new cultivar is

'Carnosa', U.S. Plant Pat. No. 18,759, issued Jul. 21, 2014, characterized by its gray-colored plants with a single primary vein, medium green-colored leaves, and medium green-colored flowers. The new cultivar was discovered and selected as a single flowering plant within the progeny of the above stated open-pollination during July 2016 in a controlled environment in Elburn, Ill. Asexual reproduction of the new cultivar by terminal stem cuttings since July 2016 in Elburn, Ill. and West Chicago, Ill. has demonstrated that the new cultivar reproduces true to type with all of the characteristics, as herein described, firmly fixed and retained through successive generations of such asexual propagation. FIG. 1 illustrates comparison of 'Balsanina' and the female parent 'Aloe Carnosa'. 'Balsanina' has three leaves on each leaf stem and produces medium green-colored flowers with darker petals than
