The Monroe County sheriff said a motorist found the body of a woman in Lake Rosie Saturday. The sheriff's office said the man went to the water's edge to fish at around 5:15 p.m. and, while he was away, he found the woman's body. The sheriff's office said the woman was about 39 years old and has not been identified. Sheriff William Waller said he will be able to identify her through dental records or family records. The sheriff's office said autopsy results will determine the cause of death. The sheriff's office is asking anyone with information on the woman's death to call the tip line at 704-792-7800.

Q: How to grant permission for 'java.net.Socket Permission' from 'localhost' I can connect to the server from my laptop. I tried from another laptop, same result. But now I am trying the same from a different server, and I get an error. Code:

try { Socket socket = new Socket("192.168.1.100", 5500); OutputStream outputStream = socket.getOutputStream(); InputStream inputStream = socket.getInputStream(); String message = "Hi, This is a message from android"; outputStream.write(message.getBytes()); outputStream.flush(); inputStream.read(); socket.close();

Q: What does it mean when you have to open Task Manager? I just wanted to take a peek at how my games are doing. When I click on the games from Steam, the title of the game is grayed out. (There is a little dot in the corner) I can't click them. I can click the icons on the task bar, but nothing happens when I do. I have to go to the Task Manager to kill the process, and start it again. My computer is running Win 7, I have 4GB of RAM and an i5 processor with a SSD. What could be causing this, and what can I do to fix it? A: The process is a part of Steam's "system tray". That means that it runs in the background, in the system tray, not in the foreground like the game itself. It doesn't mean that steam doesn't run, or that the game doesn't run. It means that it runs separately from the game, and it is not always present. In your case, it seems that it is present, but it's just in front of your games. To start/stop it, you must open Windows Task Manager (or the Steam Task Manager, located in the Steam settings), open the CPU tab, select your executable, and from the drop down menu select the "Start" button (or select the process by its name in the window you opened, but do not start the process yet). You can also open the SteamTray interface from the Steam Settings (right click on any steam-owned game, select "More Settings...", and then "Configure Steam Tray"), and there you can see if this is what is happening to your games (e.g. The Steam Tray icon has a red X to indicate that the application isn't running). A: For me the problem was related to the Steam window scale factor. When I disabled the "Stretch window contents to fit" setting the problem went away. Hi guys, I would like to give you all a little heads up about an interesting project that I have found. A few years ago, a friend of mine was working in the gaming industry as a programmer on a project for Microsoft. During this time, he came across a simple game prototype that he found very appealing. He also remembered that he used to play this game when he was younger and was
