"I believed I could take on the most powerful person in the world, the president of the United States, and win." Schuette, who had previously said he would support Trump if he were elected, cast his vote in Clinton's favor. "What's clear is that the president-elect did not respect the result of the election. He didn't respect democracy itself," Schuette said in the statement. "He did not respect the peaceful transition of power. He's now a lawless president." Schuette's statement comes a day after Trump told reporters that he didn't respect the result of the election. Schuette's political standing has deteriorated after Michigan became a key battleground in the election. Trump carried the state by 10,704 votes, or less than a percentage point, and called the results "unfair." Clinton won Michigan by 10,704 votes or 0.2 percentage points, according to CNN's exit polls. The margin of victory was much smaller in the rural counties where Schuette was best known. Schuette, a longtime supporter of Gov. Rick Snyder, who appointed Schuette to the office of attorney general, has been floated as a possible running mate for Trump. Update: Schuette said Friday morning that he had been invited to be Trump's running mate but declined.Q: is ksoap and xml pull a good idea for web service integration?
