The Internet is a network of networks that provides connectivity between different networks in different parts of the world. Many networks couple to the Internet via gateways that receive data from the network and forward the data to the Internet. The Internet has become a cultural fixture as a source of both information and entertainment. Many businesses are creating Internet sites as an integral part of their marketing efforts, informing consumers of the products or services offered by the business or providing other information seeking to engender brand loyalty. Many federal, state, and local government agencies are also using the Internet as a means of providing governmental information or services to citizens. Consumers pay for such services with the convenience of home or with a credit card.BEGIN:VCALENDAR VERSION:2.0 PRODID:-//Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München//EN
