The top official at the U.S. Agency for International Development held three times more meetings with private contractors than he did with his fellow agency employees, the Center for Public Integrity has found. The Center analyzed the calendars of USAID's Deputy Assistant Administrator, William Lawson, from Oct. 1, 2010, to Sept. 30, 2015, to find that he held 121 meetings with private contractors and only 19 with USAID employees. That comes to more than one meeting per week. While USAID employees meet with Congress and staff on a regular basis to answer questions about their work, private contractors have the freedom to roam the halls of Congress and the
