A: You're almost there. Just add dashes: - - - Which looks like: Tidal Lagoon treatment project: £50 million sea gate to be constructed at Espichel The tidal lagoon treatment system will see a new £50 million sea gate built to protect the 10-mile treatment system against the strong ebb and flood tides. The part of the east coast, which includes Ceredigion, Carmarthenshire, Pembrokeshire and the Western Isles will also be disconnected from the English coastline to prevent silting and will be walled off. A sea gate to protect the 10-mile-long tidal lagoon treatment system will be constructed at Espichel, Ceredigion. The money will be spent on the £50 million project by Swansea Metropolitan University and has received Welsh Government funding. Dr Simon Woolley, leader of Swansea Council, said the "world-class" project would be the country's first "fully economic tidal lagoon project". It comes after the second phase of investment in the £500 million Swansea Bay tidal lagoon project was announced in 2016. The economic benefits of phase two include the creation of thousands of jobs, the regeneration of areas of
