You can try this, before you open up the device: Turn the phone off Press and hold the power button (without trying to turn it on) Let go of the power button When the device starts vibrating, but nothing else, then this is a good time to try your phone again. This will force the phone to shut down all the way and will generate sufficient heat to crack the device. Alternatives Gonna be even more expensive to get this repaired: Try re-seating all the buttons. This will compress the battery and might re-open the battery if the springs are not fully released. Try another battery. If you've got a replacement for the original battery, try replacing it. Try to buy a new phone, or get a shop to change the screen. These are the things I can think of, but these could be considered a bit extreme. Original answer: (1) Remove the SIM (2) Remove the original battery (3) Charge it. (4) Put it back together. Q: How do I use string.format with a function? I want to combine my code with string, format. How do I go about doing this? I have a situation where I have a list of values. The list of values can have more than one entry. I need to convert the list of values to strings. The strings are currently a small subset, so I want the user to be able to add in more strings manually, 6d1f23a050
