The rest of this guide will walk you through the process of backing up and restoring your files.Obama devoted much of the State of the Union address on Tuesday to a solar energy policy that he said would “create jobs while saving billions of dollars.” The president called for a “national goal” of generating 20 percent of our electricity from solar power by 2022. To get there, Mr. Obama is proposing to offer tax credits and grants for solar power, call on utilities to increase the use of solar energy and create a federal loan program for solar power projects. But the proposal does not propose to cap how much of our energy is generated by fossil fuels or nuclear power. The plan calls for a 50 percent reduction in carbon emissions from power plants by 2030, but does not establish a cap on the amount of carbon that should be emitted. The administration does not say whether it will establish a carbon “fee” on fossil fuels. Obama’s plan is “the most ambitious policy proposal of the Obama administration to tackle climate change,” said League of Conservation Voters spokesman Gene Karpinski. “If enacted,” he added, “it would be a significant step toward a cleaner energy future.” A second, even more promising way to tackle climate change is to abandon our reliance on coal and instead focus on clean energy technologies that do not produce carbon pollution. It is
