the first release of the serializable java serialization api (serial 15.0) is available for download. it is intended to be the next major step in the evolution of the serializable java serialization api.

serializable java serialization is a java technology that allows java objects to be transmitted over the network (for example, over the internet) while preserving their identity. serializable java serialization is designed for use in situations where it is necessary to transmit large java objects across the network, and where those objects are likely to be transmitted many times. it can also be used for situations where it is necessary to serialize and deserialize a single object using a particular serialization library. the new version of the java serialization api does not change the api for when it is used in such situations. fmrte 5.2.5 license license redistribution and use in source and binary forms, with or without modification, are permitted provided that the following conditions are met: - redistributions of source code must retain the above copyright notice, this list of conditions and the following disclaimer. - redistributions in binary form must reproduce the above copyright notice, this list of conditions and the following disclaimer in the documentation and/or other materials provided with the distribution. - neither the name of the xiph.org foundation nor the names of its contributors may be used to endorse or promote products derived from this software without specific prior written permission. this software is provided by the copyright
