Hunters Hill (Lake DeGrey) Hunters Hill, also known as Hunters Hill 3 and HH23-16H, is a glacial drumlin with an area of and is located in the Lake DeGrey basin in the province of Manitoba, Canada. The drumlin rises to an elevation of and has an associated glacial drumlin park. In 1973 the Manitoba government proposed the construction of the Duck Lake Ring Road, which would have passed over Hunters Hill. The proposal received a lot of community opposition and construction was postponed. The proposal was again mentioned in the 1980s, but construction was halted as a result of decreased road maintenance. The drumlin was designated as part of the Duck Lake Ring Road protected area. This designation applies to the of land around the hill. Other protected areas include the surrounding wetlands (a portion of the larger Duck Lake Narrows protected area) and its associated populations of bald eagles and owls. The area was designated a provincial park in 2000.
