As a Creative Cloud subscriber, the update applies across all versions of Photoshop CS6, and versions of Photoshop CC from earlier than 11 ($9.99/month plus an annual enrollment fee of $79.99). The latter will be updated for free at the end of this year to April 30, 2019, coinciding with the release of Creative Cloud 2019. If you are not a Creative Cloud subscriber, you will need to purchase a subscription if you want to see or update the new features. The latest update is only available for the iPad Pro, which means it also requires you to jump through Apple's hoop of having to hand over your camera, a USB cable, and an iPad. The start of the update process is almost identical to how the new version has been installed in the past. You must first choose whether to Upgrade from versions earlier than Photoshop 2023 or Upgrade using version 24. This means that you are updating from versions of Photoshop earlier than 2023, and selecting the build numbers in the order they arrive on your iPad. For example, if you have 2023 followed by 622, you must select 2023—622 is the later update, corresponding to the build of the software, which is designed to work with the new features. Once selected, Photoshop Sketch will automatically install. This time around it was a lot easier than it used to be. I couldn't start Photoshop Sketch at all, and had to hard restart the iPad and then launch Photoshop Sketch again after it was done installing. I believe it has something to do with a USB issue.
