zRecompress is an easy-to-use command line tool that provides you with the ability to recompress SWF and GZ files from the command line. zRecompress can be used in the command console only and features a simple syntax. It forces the recompression process for SWF files and it trims the metadata for GZ files in order to reduce their size. zRecompress Requirements: Operating System: Windows XP/Vista/7/8/10 Processor: Intel Pentium 4/3 GHz or higher Memory: 2GB RAM Hard Disk: 20MB I used zRecompress to reduce the size of the flash player, save space, and increase the download speed. How To Use zRecompress? Run zRecompress from the command line and add the file path to compress and the file path to decompress to the command line. How to Compress SWF Files: zRecompress –c "file.swf" How to Decompress SWF Files: zRecompress –d "file.swf" For more details and support, please visit zRecompress Site.Incidentally discovered parathyroid glands in healthy middle-aged men. The prevalence of incidentally discovered parathyroid glands (PG) in healthy middle-aged men is not known. There is a small body of literature with conflicting data. In this study, we sought to measure the prevalence of incidentally discovered PG and possible associated characteristics. Participants were 198 healthy men aged 40-59 years with no known history of diseases associated with parathyroid pathology who underwent a clinically indicated parathyroid study. Participants underwent parathyroid scintigraphy, measurement of serum levels of calcium, ionized calcium, parathyroid hormone, and vitamin D, and measurement of serum sex hormone levels. PG were identified in 26/198 (13%) subjects and their mean weight was 15.8 +/- 4.1 g. Mean age was 50 +/- 3 years. Mean weight of PG was similar to other reported groups of incidentally discovered PG. The prevalence of PG did not change with age. Sixty percent of the PG were located in the lower third of the neck, compared to 29% of ectopic PG in women. Patients with PG had higher serum calcium levels than those without PG
