The aims of the study were to evaluate the efficacy of a biodegradable stent in aorto-iliac lesions in a rabbit model and the acute and chronic tissue response. Aorto-iliac arterial lesions were induced in 10 rabbits by insertion of a silicone prosthesis (control group) or by implantation of a biodegradable stent (experimental group). These stents were completely degraded within 15 weeks. All animals were killed at 15 and 31 weeks. The mean intraluminal pressures were significantly (PQ: FileOutputStream.write() filling up heap I'm analyzing some heap dumps (produced with Eclipse Memory Analyzer) of an application with a memory leak that's obvious. Here's the root cause of the leak: It seems that a lot of the time is spent writing to a FileOutputStream, not many times, but some-of-the-time. Here's a snapshot from the heap dump of the culprit, just pre-GC and post-GC: The file does eventually get closed, which leads me to believe that it's because of an exception. But I haven't been able to find exactly what it is. The closest link I've been able to find is
